"COME AND JOIN US." Sen. Antonio Trillanes IV and Gen. Danilo Lim, formerly chief of the Scout Rangers, call out to onlookers as they lead about 30 Magdalo soldiers through J.P. Rizal in Makati on their way to the Peninsula after walking out of a court hearing.

MAGDALO MUTINEER stands guard by the broken glass door of the hotel's side entrance facing Makati Avenue. The door was damaged after a tussle between reporters and soldiers.

PROTECTED: At the Col. Lauro D. Dizon Memorial National High School in San Pablo City, Laguna, President Arroyo is surrounded by her close-in security from the PSG as the breaking news unfolds. She rushes back to the Palace by chopper.

THIS IS NO SAINT'S LIST in a prepared statement, Brig. Danilo Lim recites a litany of the alleged sins of the Arroyo administration. He's flanked by Trillanes, ex-Vice President Teofisto Guingona and ex-UP president Francisco Nemenzo.

TAKE-CHARGE GUY: Director Geary Barias of the NCRPO is blocked by Magdalo guards at the stairs leading to the second floor function room where Trillanes and company are holed up. Later, Barias issues a deadline, evacuates all hotel guests, cordons the area and orders the assault.

NEVER SO FEW: Civilian supporters of the Magdalo soldiers link arms to block the media from getting near the room where Trillanes and Lim are holding a meeting.

AFTER THE SIEGE: A cast of characters—police, rebels, the media and the curious—mill about the Peninsula lobby after the surrender of the Magdalo group following the ramming of an APC through the hotel's main entrance and the firing of tear gas into the lobby.

1-STAR LOBBY comes complete with an APC. It rammed its way into the Peninsula lobby sending a chilling warning to the Magdalo rebels.

SEALED TO TRAFFIC: At the intersection of Ayala and Makati Avenues, an APC is positioned for the duration of the "situation."

EVACUATION: Police order the evacuation of all hotel guests. The Peninsula announced it would pay all the charges at the hotels its guests are transferred to up to Friday.

THEY SAY THAT THOSE WHO DO NOT remember the past are doomed to repeat it. In fashion, however, the past is an infinite wellspring of inspiration for constant reinvention and recreation.

One of my favorite designers, Ivar Aseron, is taking us all on a time warp once again with his take on this year's Folded & Hung Holiday Collection.

You may get some traces of "Beowulf" here. He draws from the medieval era for this collection. Folded & Hung, which began as a small yet exciting enterprise in 1998, now has over 50 stores all over the country and is a leading retailer of men and women's fashion. FH is known for its out-of-the-box collaborations with various style icons and trendsetters.

This is the second year in a row that Ivar is collaborating with FH. Last year, he designed the Holiday Luxe Collection.

The designer said that when he designed the collection, he had in mind the typical FH woman who is fashionable, confident, and easy yet practical. (That practicality is reflected in the reasonable price tags, with pieces ranging from P699 to P1,200.)

More importantly, he wanted the clothes to be mixed-and-matched versatile, so women could be free to mix and match the pieces with their existing wardrobe. As such, the collection as a whole radiates a feminine, sensual allure, combining medieval details with modern cuts.

What to expect this year? For the color palette, look forward to classic black dominating the holiday ensembles, along with teal, dove gray, magenta and mustard. Silhouettes have a desirable soft volume that are cut away from the body. Tops have interesting variations in metallic jersey—which give that impression of armor—along with stretched cotton and poplin cut to accentuate the neck, shoulders and upper chest. They either softly drape at the bottom or gather at the lower hip.

Other details reflecting the period are found in the necklines, plackets and pockets, which are accentuated by textured black leaves of faux gems. Pants are either slim or cut wide at the leg, and come in satin stretched twill or denim.

Though the collection is inspired by the Middle Ages, I believe it evokes a classic feminine style, and that is truly timeless. We must always learn from the past, after all.

(Ivar Aseron's collection is available at selected FH stores: Mall of Asia, Megamall, The Block, Trinoma, The Shop, Robinsons Ermita, Shangri-La, Galleria and Gateway Mall Stores.)

Hugo Boss hosts Boss Black fashion show in New York

BOSS Black Photocourtesy Spring Summer 2008 Collection

ON THE EVENING OF OCT. 17, HUGO Boss is presenting the Spring/Summer 2008 collection of its Boss Black line in New York City. Some 800 invited guests from around the world—including Julianne Moore and Anthony Hopkins—are expected to attend the event, which will be held at the imposing, neo-classical Cunard Building in Manhattan's financial district.

Thirty-five international top models, among them current campaign models Catherine McNeil and Mathias Lauridsen, will be showcasing men's and womenswear from Boss Black. Illuminated from within, the catwalk has been integrated seamlessly into the church-like interior with its sandstone-colored columns.

Designed by Creative Director Ingo Wilts under the stylistic headline "The New Modern," the collection represents contemporary classics, coexistence looks and exceptional quality. For several years now, the Boss Black menswear with its hallmark black and white logo has been rounded out by a womenswear collection that makes a distinctive feminine statement all its own. Taken as a whole, the Boss Black fashions for men and women personify a symbiosis of sensuality and sensuality, clean aesthetics, and urban sophistication. Boss Black is both timeless and up-to-date.

The concept behind the New York fashion event captures the character of the collection in all its facets, staging juxtaposed styles with sensual sophistication. Beautiful interior elements in the lounge area, including black carpets and Chesterfield furnishings, contrast with geometric light installations composed of blue neon tubes. And while the elegant atmosphere in the lounge is accompanied by the surprise gig of a popular New York jazz band, the show area will later host the hot rock/new wave pop performers The Bravery.

At the after-show dinner party, creature comforts will be supplied by the New York-based caterer Glorious Food in the shape of a flying buffet, bars and various food stations.

Locating the Boss Black presentation for Summer 2008 in New York reflects a policy decision on the part of the Hugo Boss Group, in line with its strategy of showing its three largest fashion collections—Boss Black, Boss Orange and Hugo—separately each year within the scope of major fashion events in world capitals.

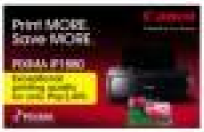

Hugo Boss Director of Communications Philipp Wolff: "New York City is second to none for its blend of fashion, modernity and urbanity. This fashion event is designed to stress the identity of the Boss Black collections and simultaneously underscore the significance of the US market for all the Hugo Boss collections."

Hugo Boss is exclusively distributed by Stores Specialists, Inc. The boutiques are located at Greenbelt 4 and Shangri-La Plaza Mall.

Stars love these bags and shoes

A BRAND KNOWN FOR ITS elegance, versatile and low-key chic designs, Tod's has undoubtedly become one of the favorites of the Who's Who of Hollywood.

Just look at A-list actresses Jennifer Garner and Catherine Zeta Jones, who love lugging their Tod's clutch bags during red carpet affairs.

Dashing mom and actress Jennifer Garner's favorite is the Tod's Cappuccino pochette in pale gold satin with crystal embellishments, which she had with her at the opening night of her Broadway show "Cyrano de Bergerac."

Also a fan of the Tod's Cappuccino Pochette, the always glamorous and sophisticated Jones donned this clutch in silver satin color to match her purple and silver red carpet look at the [illegible] event in New York City.

Adding to the growing list of Tod's Cappuccino pochette metallic clutch aficionados is supermodel turned actor Molly Sims, who sported the bronze bag to complete her metallic bronze ensemble at the Operation Smile event in Los Angeles.

Another huge fan of Tod's is actress and style icon Sarah Jessica Parker, who was spotted having a break from filming her latest movie in New York City with her comfy and handy Tod's Pashmy Lana Nylon bag [illegible] carrying all her essentials.

And who says Tod's is just all about bags? Uma Thurman was caught by paparazzi looking comfortable and chic wearing her Tod's Gommini [illegible] while riding her scooter in New York.

RONNIE SALVACION

With a sharp eye and a fascination for all things interesting, Ronnie Salvacion turns even the most mundane of things into stunning portraits. He admires every photo he has taken, reminding the very moment of his inspiration. Capturing photos that become part of the country's landscape is his greatest achievement. Ronnie uses the power of the Samsung G600's LED flash by shedding light to the beauty of night scenes with Pixel Perfect.

NOELLE HERNANDEZ

Being a former model, Noelle Hernandez understands what it's like to be the focus of the camera. She has been taking photos for a year now and loves capturing people and travel. She opens her mind to all possibilities and she's always in awe of the beauty of nature. Noelle's masterpieces come from her fresh perspective. She has been experimenting on the different techniques of photography in search of her own style. With the Samsung G600 and its various functions and shot modes, she unveils the secrets of the city.

STEVE TIRONA

Steve Tirona has been taking pictures for 17 years already and has mastered shooting portraits and fashion. His advocacy is for the intricacies of different faces and expressions to come to life in his works. Fashion is his muse. Steve captures the eye-catching styles and fusion of fashionistas with the Samsung G600's 16 million colors.

JAKE VERSOZA

Jake Versoza's masterpieces have always been a reflection of his personality. He turns people and places into wonderful subjects. He takes pictures as he sees them, capturing moments as they unfold. Jake turns the fast-fleeting images of the metro into stunning portraits with the Samsung G600's High Sensitive ISO.

PAOLO PINEDA

The talented and upbeat Paolo Pineda has been passionate about shooting fashion, beauty, portraits and landscapes. He has filled magazine covers, fashion spreads, and billboards with beautiful shots that can only come from his unique photographic eye. Paolo explains, "My style evolves, it will never stop to grow and change." He takes the tropical's ever-changing [illegible] with stolen scenes and photos of fleeting moments with the Samsung G600's [illegible].

Star Awards: A fine mess

THE OFFICIAL STATEMENT from the Philippine Movie Press Club (PMPC), released on Wednesday, addressed a controversy that has been festering in the tabloids since trophies for the 21st Star Awards for TV were handed out last Nov. 18.

Rejoinder from lawyer of Piolo and Sam

I WISH TO THANK JOHN SILVA FOR HIS insights on Hollywood actor Tab Hunter—they are quite informative.

Please be assured that the libel case filed by Messrs. Piolo Pascual and Sam Milby is not an assault on gays who have, indeed, contributed a lot to this industry. Rather, it is to correct a wrong committed by a columnist by writing fabricated and malicious accusations against my clients. (Sgd.) Atty. Joji Alonso

Ang Lee believer

From Cristy Gomez (email ad with bold upon request), sent to columnist Ruben Nepales:

When I watched "Crouching Tiger Hidden Dragon" a few years ago, I was in awe of the story. It has a colorful background and graceful choreography, too. Chinese films and TV shows appeal to me. I have been watching them since childhood (I'm 55 now!). I believe in Ang Lee's work. He's a very creative filmmaker and writer. Whatever he did in "Lust, Caution" (I still have to see it), I'm sure he's done with good taste.

Not a date

From Nina Gomez ([illegible]), Las Piñas City:

For Dolly Anne Carvajal—Are Shalala and Rachelle Ann Go at Beyonce's concert? That was not a date, all I have to say is again and again. Rachelle got a complimentary ticket from Lani Misalucha's manager. It was beyond her control that it was Ard who held the tickets and gave hers only at the concert venue. I think Ard did that deliberately to make people think they were on a date. Rachelle went with her dad, who was seated in another section. End of the story.

Kudos, InHollywood

From Ronald ([illegible]), Singapore:

Ruben Nepales' article on Nov. 9 about Jiz and Marc Anthony is great, to say the least. It's fascinating to know that two superstars live a very simple and loving life together. It really made my day.

FEEDBACK

From Nicole Aiko Medina ([illegible]):

Hello, I was just reading your most recent article about Shakira and "Love in the Time of Cholera." I just want to tell you that Shakira is 30 years old, not 35. But thank you so much for that wonderful article!

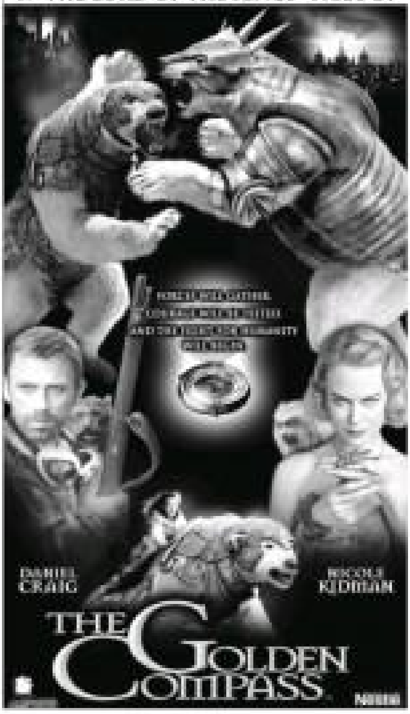

Hilarious column

From [illegible] ([illegible]):

I just read Dollywood's Christmas column for finding stars. It was hilarious. More power!

SHOW BIZ DADS: Action star Robin Padilla, left, with daughters Kylie and Queenie, both sassy that change. Above, Gary Valenciano with kids Paolo, Kiana and Gabriel, all music lovers.

CELEBRITY PHOTOGRAPHER Jun de Leon honors show biz dads in his newest book, "Our Fathers."

Specifically, show biz dads whose biggest fans are their children: multi-platinum recording artist Gary Valenciano and actor Robin Padilla.

The two are among the 42 fathers in the book, which also include Martin Nievera and Ogie Alcasid. The others are national leaders (like Kris Aquino's dad Ninoy), businessmen and entrepreneurs, military men and professionals. The photographs come with poignant essays by their children.

Angel Locsin's father, Angel Colmenares, is also in the compilation by Cross Publishing.

The book comes with an audio CD containing a song performed by Martin Nievera and arranged by Louie Ocampo.

Some of the other fathers in the book are Gabby Lopez, [illegible], [illegible], Frank Silva, [illegible], [illegible] Villar, [illegible], [illegible] Ocampo, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible] Lhuillier, [illegible], [illegible], Philip Go [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], and [illegible].

Famas Awards, at Le Pavillon on Nov. 25

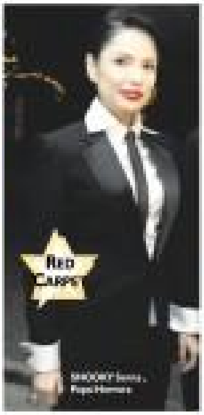

MAJORITY OF THE CELEBRITIES WHO ATTENDED THE RECENT Filipino Academy of Movie Arts and Sciences (Famas) awards ceremony played it safe by slipping into understated gowns in subdued tones. But a few made heads turn, including Snooky Serna, sharp in a black tuxedo by Pepsi Herrera, and comedian [illegible], who strutted around in a zebra-print gown by Frederick Peralta. Living Stars gives these two a thumbs up for defying convention.
